

ABSTRACT

An injection encapsulating process for a 3D-animation cup transfers a 3D-animation layer to an inner cup, followed by transfer of a thermal-withstanding protection layer to exterior of said 3D-animation layer, then both layers
5 transferred to the surface of the inner cup before being placed in dies to be encapsulated and become an integrated with an injection molded transparent outer cup.